

East Providence Local Advisory Committee For Special Education

The Local Advisory Committee for Special Education is a committee made up of parents of children with disabilities along with administrators, teachers, and others with a concern for our children. We meet throughout the school year to share information and concerns of educational issues.

The committees' goals are:

- To enable parents of special education children to be effective in their advocacy efforts.
- To jointly advocate for all children with special needs.
- To aid the East Providence School Department in its efforts to provide quality education for all students.
- To provide each other with a strong network of support.
